Mohammad Hussein Ahmad Assaf
External PhD Candidate
Industrial Engineering & Business Information Systems
Digital Society Institute

Personal profile

My name is Mohammad Assaf. I'm living and working in Germany as an Android Developer since 2013. With my computer science background and passion to games I started my interest in Serious Games and Game-based Learning. In 2019, I joined the University of Twente as an external PhD student to conduct my research about the implementation of serious games in formal education. In my research, I'm exploring the implications of using serious games with dynamic contents on the acceptance of game-based learning by teachers.

Employment

External PhD Candidate
Industrial Engineering & Business Information Systems
University of Twente
1 Dec 2023 → present

External PhD Candidate
Digital Society Institute
University of Twente
1 Dec 2019 → present